

AMERICAN ACADEMY OF PSYCHIATRY AND THE LAW 2007 ANNUAL MEETING

GOALS:

To inform attendees about current major issues in forensic psychiatry and afford them opportunities to refresh skills in the fundamentals of the discipline, engage in discussion with peers on the standards governing the profession, and update their present knowledge.

CME TARGET AUDIENCE:

Psychiatrists and other physicians working at the interface of law and psychiatry.

OBJECTIVES:

Participants will improve their skills in forensic psychiatry in the following three areas:

- 1) Service, including treatment of forensic patients, development of service delivery strategies, and enhancement of consultative abilities at the interface of psychiatry and the legal profession;
- 2) Teaching, including new methods of training of forensic psychiatrists and classification of the tasks and functions of forensic psychiatrists; and
- 3) Research, gaining access to scientific data in areas that form the basis for practice of the discipline.

ACCREDITATION:

The American Academy of Psychiatry and the Law is accredited by the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education to provide continuing medical education for physicians.

The American Academy of Psychiatry and the Law designates this educational activity for a maximum of 33 AMA PRA Category 1 Credits™. Physicians should only claim credit commensurate with the extent of their participation in the activity.

Conceptual History of Psychopathy

Henning Sass, MD

Henning Sass, M.D., is one of today's leading general and forensic psychiatrists in Europe. He is the Medical Director and Chair of the Board of Directors at the University Hospital of the University of Technology in Aachen/Aix-la-Chapelle, Germany. Dr. Sass has been President of the German Society for Psychiatry, Psychotherapy and Nervous Diseases and most recently of the Association of European Psychiatrists. He is a member of numerous scientific boards including the European Brain Council and the Research Council of the German Ministry for Scientific Research and Technology. Co-editor of several German specialty journals, Dr. Sass is Editor-in-Chief of "Der NervenArzt", the premier scientific journal for psychiatrists and neurologists in Germany. He is co-editor of "The International Handbook of Psychopathic Disorders and the Law" (in press). Having authored or edited several books on personality and psychopathic disorders, Dr. Sass is commonly quoted concerning his contributions to psychopathic disorders and his "reference system" for comprehensively addressing mental criminal responsibility.

He is Chair of the Subcommittee for Advanced Training in Forensic Psychiatry of Royal Australian and New Zealand College of Psychiatry.

COURSES

Nuts and Bolts: How To Run A Sex Offender Program

J. Paul Fedoroff, MD, John Bradford, MB, William Marshall, PhD, Fabian M. Saleh, MD

This course will present practical information derived primarily from one of the most well known clinics of its type in North America: the Sexual Behaviors Clinic (SBC) of the Royal Ottawa Health Care Centre. Dr. Bradford, founder of the SBC will present an historical perspective on the development and changes in the function of the clinic. Dr. Fedoroff will present on intake and assessment procedures, including a new web-based assessment and research protocol. Dr. Marshall will present on psychotherapeutic interventions utilized in the clinic. Dr. Saleh will provide a discussion of the similarities and differences between sex offender clinics in Canada and the United States. This course will provide information for forensic psychiatrists interested in establishing sex offender clinics. All presenters involved in this course have established international reputations as experts on the topic and will provide a wealth of information of interest to both North American and International audiences.

Psychological Testing For Forensic Psychiatrists

William H. Campbell, MD, MBA

Psychological testing is often requested by forensic psychiatrists to inform and support diagnostic conclusions and to bolster written opinions and testimony. This course is designed for the forensic psychiatrist as a consumer of psychological testing. Topics will include what questions can and cannot be answered, what to ask for, what to expect of the testing, and how to use it. The faculty will review the process of psychological testing, the applicability and limitations of the various tests for diagnostic and forensic questions, and their vulnerability to Daubert challenges. Cognitive, personality, sexual deviance, and risk assessment measures (including actuarial tests), and methods of assessing malingering will be reviewed, as well as the process for choosing tests, the characteristics of relevant interpretation, and the merits of different ways to incorporate psychological results in a written forensic report and testimony. A series of case studies that focus on common forensic scenarios will illustrate the advantages and limitations of psychological testing, the process of collaboration between forensic psychiatrist and psychologist, and methods of preparation for cross-examination when psychological tests are used. The course includes didactic presentation and interactive participation to highlight challenges and ethical issues.

How To Give a More Effective Lecture: Punch, Passion, and Polish

Phillip J. Resnick, MD

This course will provide practical advice on how to make a psychiatric presentation with punch, passion, and polish. Instruction will be given on planning a scientific paper presentation, a lecture, and a half-day course. The course leader will cover the selection of a title through to the choice of closing remarks. Teaching techniques to hold the audience's attention include the use of humor, anecdotes, and vivid images. Participants will be taught to involve the audience by breaking them into pairs to solve problems by applying recently acquired knowledge. Participants will learn never to (1) read while lecturing; (2) display their esoteric vocabulary; or (3) rush through their talk, now matter what the time constraints. Tips will be given for making traditional word slides and innovative picture slides. Pitfalls of PowerPoint will be illustrated. Advice will be given on the effective use of videotape vignettes. A videotape will be used to illustrate common errors made by lecturers. The course will also cover preparation of handouts. Finally participants will be strongly encouraged to make a three-minute presentation with or without slides and receive feedback from workshop participants. Participants should plan to bring PowerPoint slides on CD or memory stick.
