2008 Preliminary Program

39th Annual Meeting

October 23 - 26, 2008

The Westin

Seattle, Washington

AMERICAN ACADEMY OF PSYCHIATRY AND THE LAW 2008 ANNUAL MEETING

GOALS:

To inform attendees about current major issues in forensic psychiatry and afford them opportunities to refresh skills in the fundamentals of the discipline, engage in discussion with peers on the standards governing the profession, and update their present knowledge.

CME TARGET AUDIENCE:

Psychiatrists and other physicians working at the interface of law and psychiatry.

OBJECTIVES:

Participants will improve their skills in forensic psychiatry in the following three areas:

- 1) Service, including treatment of forensic patients, development of service delivery strategies, and enhancement of consultative abilities at the interface of psychiatry and the legal profession;
- 2) Teaching, including new methods of training of forensic psychiatrists and classification of the tasks and functions of forensic psychiatrists; and
- 3) Research, gaining access to scientific data in areas that form the basis for practice of the discipline.

ACCREDITATION:

The American Academy of Psychiatry and the Law is accredited by the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education to provide continuing medical education for physicians.

The American Academy of Psychiatry and the Law designates this educational activity for a maximum of 31.75 AMA PRA Category 1 Credits™. Physicians should only claim credit commensurate with the extent of their participation in the activity.

LUNCH SPEAKERS

Performing Mental Health Law: Old Challenges and New Opportunities in Virginia

Richard J. Bonnie, LLB

Mr. Bonnie is Harrison Foundation Professor of Medicine and Law, Professor of Psychiatry and Neurobehavioral Science, and Director of the Institute of Law, Psychiatry and Public Policy at the University of Virginia. He has published countless scholarly works over his career. His public service has included his roles as Secretary of the first National Advisory Council on Drug Abuse (1975-80); chair of Virginia's State Human Rights Committee responsible for protecting rights of persons with mental disabilities (1979-85), and chief advisor for the ABA Criminal Justice Mental Health Standards Project (1981-88). Professor Bonnie has served as an advisor to the APA Council on Psychiatry and Law since 1979, received the APA's Isaac Ray Award in 1998 and a special presidential commendation in 2003 for his contributions to American psychiatry. He has also served on the MacArthur Foundation Research Network on Mental Health and the Law (1988-96) and is currently participating in MacArthur Foundation work on Mandated Community Treatment and a new Initiative on Neuroscience and Law. In 1991, Professor Bonnie was elected to the Institute of Medicine of the National Academies. He received the Yarmolinsky Medal in 2002 for his contributions to the IOM and the National Academies. In 2006 he was appointed as Chair of a Commission on Mental Health Law Reform at the request of the Chief Justice of Virginia. In 2007, he received the University of Virginia's highest honor, the Thomas Jefferson Award.

Police Interrogation and False Confessions

Richard A. Leo, Ph.D., JD

Richard A. Leo, Ph.D., JD is an Associate Professor of Law at the University of San Francisco and formerly an Associate Professor of Psychology and Criminology at the University of California, Irvine. He is a leading, internationally recognized authority on police interrogation practices, false confessions, and wrongful convictions. He is the author four books, including of Police Interrogation and American Justice (Harvard University Press, 2008) and, with Tom Wells, of The Wrong Guys: Murder, False Confessions and the Norfolk 4 (The New Press, 2008). His many articles have appeared in leading legal and scientific journals. Dr. Leo has won many awards including those for research excellence from the American Psychological Association, and the American Academy of Forensic Psychology. He has appeared in the media and his research has been cited by numerous appellate courts (including the U.S. Supreme Court). In the last 12 years, he has consulted on more than 900 cases of disputed interrogation and/or disputed confession in 45 states (as well as in Japan, Germany and Canada). He has testified as an expert witness more than 160 times in state, federal and military courts in 23 states. Dr. Leo has worked on many high profile cases involving false confessions, including the cases of Michael Crowe, Earl Washington, two of the Central Park Jogger defendants among others.

Shipman: Is He A Special Case?

John C. Gunn, CBE, MD, FRCPsych, FMedSci

Professor John Gunn is Emeritus Professor of Forensic Psychiatry at the Institute of Psychiatry (IOP), King's College London. Professor Gunn is a significant founder of forensic psychiatry in the U.K. He was the Head of the Section of the Department of Forensic Psychiatry at the IOP from 1978 until his retirement in 2002. He worked at Bethlem Royal and Maudsley Hospital where he was active clinically and established a number of inpatient services. He participated in the Royal Commission on Criminal Justice from 1991 to 1993. He was an advisor on special committees for the House of Commons. He has served on governmental advisory committees such as those examining restricted patients and prison mental health care and research. He has been on Senior Committees of the Royal College of Psychiatrists. Professor Gunn worked on a volunteer basis to establish the Effra Trust, a hostel project for men with mental disorders leaving prison, and established the Gent Group, which aims to bring together national standards in forensic psychiatry in the U.K. He has been on the editorial staff of several respected psychiatric journals and remains editor of Criminal Behaviour and Mental Health. He has consulted in China, Japan, New Zealand, and to the APA. Professor Gunn has authored books and numerous peer-reviewed articles on violence, mental disorder and crime, and prison mental health care. He serves on the Parole Board of England and Wales. Professor Gunn has participated in several official governmental inquiries, including the inquiry into the Shipman case.

COURSES

Psychological Testing for Forensic Psychiatrist

William H. Campbell, MD, MBA
Madelon V. Baranoski, PhD

Psychological testing is often requested by forensic psychiatrists to inform and support diagnostic conclusions and to bolster written opinions and testimony. This course is designed for the forensic psychiatrist as a consumer of psychological testing. Topics will include what questions can and cannot be answered, what to ask for, what to expect of the testing, and how to use it. The faculty will review the process of psychological testing, the applicability and limitations of the various tests for diagnostic and forensic questions, and their vulnerability to Daubert challenges. Cognitive, personality, sexual deviance, and risk assessment measures (including actuarial tests), and methods of assessing malingering will be reviewed, as well as the process for choosing tests, the characteristics of relevant interpretation, and the merits of different ways to incorporate psychological results in a written forensic report and testimony. A series of cases studies that focus on common forensic scenarios will illustrate the advantages and limitations of psychological testing, the process of collaboration between forensic psychiatrist and psychologist, and methods of preparation for cross-examination when psychological tests are used. The course includes didactic presentation and interactive participation to highlight challenges and ethical issues.

The Expert Witness in Psychiatric Malpractice Cases

Phillip J. Resnick, MD

This workshop will focus on practical aspects of serving as a psychiatric expert witness in malpractice litigation. The workshop will cover the initial contact with the attorney, data collection, case analysis, report writing and preparation for discovery depositions. Instruction will be given in identifying the correct standard of care, use of the defendant psychiatrist's perspective, and avoidance of the hindsight bias. Dr. Resnick will draw case examples from his experience of evaluating more than 150 malpractice cases. Principles of writing malpractice reports will be explicated. The differences in plaintiff and defense expert reports will be explored. For example, defense reports are only expected to address deviations from the standard of care identified by plaintiff's experts. In preparing for expert witness depositions, participants will be advised about what to remove from their file, the importance of not volunteering anything, and that nothing is "off the record." Handouts will include 64 suggestions for discovery depositions. Each participant will write an opinion about an actual suicide malpractice case. Participants will defend their opinions in mock cross-examination.

Understanding Risk Assessment and Management

Michael A. Norko, MD
Madelon V. Baranoski, PhD

The assessment of risk for violence in psychiatric patients is a significant factor in clinical, policy, legislative, and forensic decisions. The advancement of population-based and community-controlled studies of mental illness and violence, and the emergence of valid and reliable risk assessment measures are defining the practice, policies, and standards for risk assessment. Familiarity with the relevant research, legal and clinical issues that shape practice and the relative merits and limitations (especially as applied to individuals) of the different assessment tools is essential to this area of forensic practice. This course will present a framework for understanding the role of psychiatry in risk assessment. We will explore the strengths and limitations of various approaches to determining risk through a critical review of seminal research on the correlates of violence and the accuracy of risk assessments. An analysis of the appropriate use of actuarial versus clinical assessment will be presented, as well as a review of recent critiques (including ethical concerns) regarding risk assessment. Models of risk assessment and management that accommodate a synthesis of available research will be presented. Finally, we will describe an alternative approach to risk management, based on the assessment and enhancement of the individual's functional capacities.
