

The Journal of the American Academy of Psychiatry and the Law

The Journal, published by the American Academy of Psychiatry and the Law, is intended to be a forum for the exchange of multidisciplinary ideas. Manuscripts are welcomed that deal with the interfaces of psychiatry and the legal system and the theory and practice of forensic psychiatry. This includes correctional psychiatry, psychiatric evaluation of individuals involved with the criminal or civil legal system, ethics, the philosophy of law, legal regulation of psychiatric practice, education and training in the field, and research into causes and treatment of behavioral problems that manifest themselves particularly in individuals who are in contact with the legal system.

Regular and Special articles are subject to a blind peer review process. Editorials, Commentaries, and other articles that by their nature do not lend themselves to standard blind review are evaluated for style, clarity, consistency, and suitability.

All articles represent the opinions of the authors and not those of the editors. Except where specifically stated, published articles are not official statements of the American Academy of Psychiatry and the Law.

Instructions for Authors

Manuscripts are considered for publication with the understanding that their essential substance has not been published previously and has not been submitted simultaneously to other publications.

As of February 1, 2009, the Journal Editorial Office will move to: One Regency Drive, P.O. Box 30, Bloomfield, CT 06002. The Editorial Assistant will be Sarah Westlake (Tel. 800-331-1389; e-mail: swestlake@ssmgt.com). All matters related to the Journal with the exception of the Analysis and Commentary section should be addressed to Ezra E. H. Griffith, MD, in care of Ms. Westlake as noted above.

For the non-peer-reviewed Analysis and Commentary section of the Journal, contact Michael A. Norko, MD, Deputy Editor, Law & Psychiatry Division, Connecticut Mental Health Center, 34 Park Street, New Haven, CT 06519 (e-mail: michael.norko@yale.edu) to discuss proposed submissions.

For matters concerning book reviews, contact the AAPL Executive Office (Tel: 1-800-331-1389; e-mail: office@aapl.org).

The Journal is committed to thoughtful and respectful analysis of matters printed in the Journal. Such analysis enhances the educational mission of the Journal. At the Editor's discretion, some of the articles appearing in the Journal may be chosen as the subject for commentary by other scholars. Commentators are chosen for their interest and expertise in the topic of the designated article. Generally, authors will be informed in advance of printing that their work will be the subject of a commentary. These authors are invited to respond to the commentaries through Letters to the Editor.

Ethics in Research

For investigations involving human or animal subjects, the authors must state in the methods section that an appropriate institutional review board (IRB) approved the project or exempted the project from review. A copy of the IRB letter should accompany the manuscript. Authors without access to an IRB are encouraged to discuss alternatives with the editor. The methods section should also describe the manner in which informed consent was obtained from the subjects.

Technical Requirements

Include the address, phone number, fax number, and e-mail address of the corresponding author on all manuscripts. Submission may be by email with the manuscript attached or by computer disk or CD. Submission is not considered complete until a paper copy of the manuscript with tables and figures of reproduction quality and signed Statement of Authorship Responsibility are received.

Manuscripts should be double-spaced throughout (including references), with at least one-inch margins, not justified.

Manuscripts should be submitted in the following order:

1. Title page: Title; author(s) (first name, middle initial, surname, and degrees). Title page should also include all author affiliations; grant acknowledgment (if applicable); where presented (if applicable); any necessary disclaimers e.g., "The views expressed in this article do not necessarily reflect the official DVA policy", and address for correspondence, including email address (required).
2. Abstract: one-paragraph summary of 150 words or less
3. Text
4. Acknowledgments (if any)
5. Appendix or Addendum (if any)

6. References should be numbered consecutively with Arabic numerals as they appear in the text (number each source citation as a separate item; but the same reference number may be cited more than once in the text). In general, the style for references, tables, and figures should conform to the specific reference formats listed in the next section. When quotations are included in text, the specific page number of the reference must be given. References are limited to citations. The Journal does not allow footnotes.

7. Figure legends should be numbered with Arabic numbers in order of appearance in the text.

8. Tables should be numbered with Arabic numbers in order of appearance in the text.

Statement of Authorship Responsibility, Financial Disclosure, and Transfer of Copyright

Each author and co-author is required to sign the following statement and include it with the initial manuscript submission.

1. The author and co-authors warrant that the manuscript _____ is the original work, has not been published before, and will not be published elsewhere subsequently without the permission of the Editors and the Publisher.
2. The author and co-authors certify that they have participated sufficiently in the work to take public responsibility for it. Authors should meet the following criteria: (a) conceived and designed the work or analyzed and interpreted the data; (b) drafted the article or reviewed it for intellectual content; and (c) read and approved the final version to be published. Conditions (a), (b), and (c) must all be met. Participation solely in the acquisition of funding or the collection of data does not justify authorship. General supervision of the research group is not sufficient for authorship. Department chairpersons who were not involved directly in the study, physicians who referred patients or interpreted routine studies, technicians who supplied routine services, and persons who provided technical help in preparing the paper should not be listed as authors. Any part of an article critical to its main conclusions must be the responsibility of at least one author. The editor may require the authors to justify the assignment of authorship.
3. The author and co-authors warrant that the work is valid in that it accurately reports the nature of the work's methodology, research, analysis, results, and conclusions.
4. The author and co-authors agree to produce the data on which the manuscript is based for examination if requested by the Editors.
5. The author and co-authors agree to identify in writing any financial involvement they may have in relation to the manuscript. (When appropriate, notice of financial disclosure will be published as part of the article so that the reader may be aware of any possible biases of the author or co-authors.)
I/we have financial involvement in relation to the manuscript. Yes _____ No _____
If yes, I/we have attached a written explanation.
6. The author and co-authors warrant that informed consent to research has been obtained from all research subjects or their authorized surrogates.
7. The authors warrant the following (check one):
 - (a) _____ The work did not involve the use of human or animal subjects.
 - (b) _____ The work was exempted from review by the appropriate IRB (documentation attached).
 - (c) _____ The work was approved by the appropriate IRB (documentation attached).
8. In consideration of The Journal of the American Academy of Psychiatry and the Law's taking action in reviewing and editing this submission, the author(s) undersigned hereby transfer, assign, or otherwise convey all copyright ownership to the American Academy of Psychiatry and the Law in the event that such work is published in the Journal.
